Pank Holiday in London Causes Local Stagnation-Reaction in Penn. sylvania After Two Points Advance on Declaration of Dividend.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.-The stock market opened dall and continued so throughout the day. Although London has been an unimportant factor in the market throughout the week, it is probable that the maspension of business at that point there, added to the virtual stagnation which prevailed in the local dealings. Not even such an important matter as the declaration of an extra dividend on Pennsylvania served to carry more than a transient influence. Pennsylvania did, in-deed, advance rapidly about 2 points, but the stock subsequently reneted in sympa-thy with the suggleg tendency of the remainder of the list.

There were no new developments of importance to which it was possible to refer directly the listlessness of the specula-tion. Sterling exchange was indeed notably strong, and rates advanced to the highest figures of the season. Now that gold shipments have begun, it is common expectation that they will continue intermittently for some weeks. The money market on call ranged around the levels of the week.

Notwithstanding the exports of gold by pesterday's steamship, preliminary figures of the week's movements in money indi-cate that the banks have lost only about $1,800,000. So far as the interior move-ment is concerned, they report an actual gain of over $1,000,000. This is the first gain on balance in this last respect in about two months. The action of the Treasury Department in resuming the purchase of Government bonds was generally commended although it was recogof the Treasury would actually tend to facilitate the expert movement of gold.

of the Treasury would actually tend to facilitate the expert movement of gold. The market opened irregular and, generally speaking, heavy. With the course of the morning a number of usually inactive railway stocks scored material advances, as the Soo stocks, Lake Eric and Westlern and Pere Marauette. Among the higher grade issues Delaware and Hudson and Lackawanna were also strong. Brooklyn Rapid Transit showed aggressive strength, as did the other traction shares. The day's net price changes, however, were without much significance. In the industrials, Ginrose advanced sharply, for no better apparent reason than the amountement of the reduction of the dividend on the common stock, which action was taken at the meeting of the directors in Chicago yesterday.

Nothing of special interest transpired among the specialities, in which group Amalgamated Copper was the active feature, although the fluctuations in the stock were musually limited One feature of the day's dealings worthy of note was the continued strength in the bond market, which was also comparatively active. Government bonds also noved up fractionary.

With the course of the afternoon the argument.

The stock market yesterday was in the main strong and it grew better as it grew older. In the early hours of the session there was little business, and prices fluctuated narrowly. Later, and more especially during the last hour, the buying became more incistent and prices advanced steadily. The close was at the best level of the day, and very near, if not quite, the highest reached in recent weeks. There was some buying by the public and some buying by important clique interests. It is impossible to say if the insiders are taking much or any part in the present market or not, but the continued strength of prices when the general expectation had been for a re-when they are in control.

Today or perhaps next week will give more light on the atuntion. If the insiders have really reached an understanding regarding the Northern Pacific matter, and if they have other important news to divalge in the near future. It is possible, at least, that they have began an important ball campaign. Despite the surface and temperary unfavorableness of the morey market, there are evidences that in the very near future this factor wile be eliminated from the rilutation on tirely. It has been a theory of some careful market, people that the inancial conditions were the only thing that prevented the big people from attempting a ball market. If the indictor are not yet really for their campaign, it seems entirely probable that there will be a recession of two or three points at least next week.

The outlook for the bank statement today is compilented by two or three facloos. The banks have lost rather heavily to the Sub-Treasury, and at first it was supposed that the statement would be very poor as a result. It was developed yesterday, however, that the banks have actually gained from the interfor this week. This occurs for the first time since August, and is an excellent indication that the flow of money to the interior for the movement of the crops is over for the year. The loss to the Sub-Treasury is about $1,000.00 according to the experts. The gain from the interior is about $1,700.00 leaving a balance against the banks, but not such a large one as was looked for. The loan account is entirely in doubt, and may have a surprise either on the right or the wrong side. On the whole, the prospect is for some reduction in the surplus referive.

One of the "tips" yesterday was that the Erie securities are likely to have a good advance in the near future. These securities have not participated in the recent advance of the market, and in view of the fine statement of the company for September and the promise for October, it is thought not in the least unlikely that a pool may take hold of them. Some investment buying is noticeable, but this of itself would not be likely to cause much of an advance.
